ABOUT

THE ARTIST
VIK KAINTH

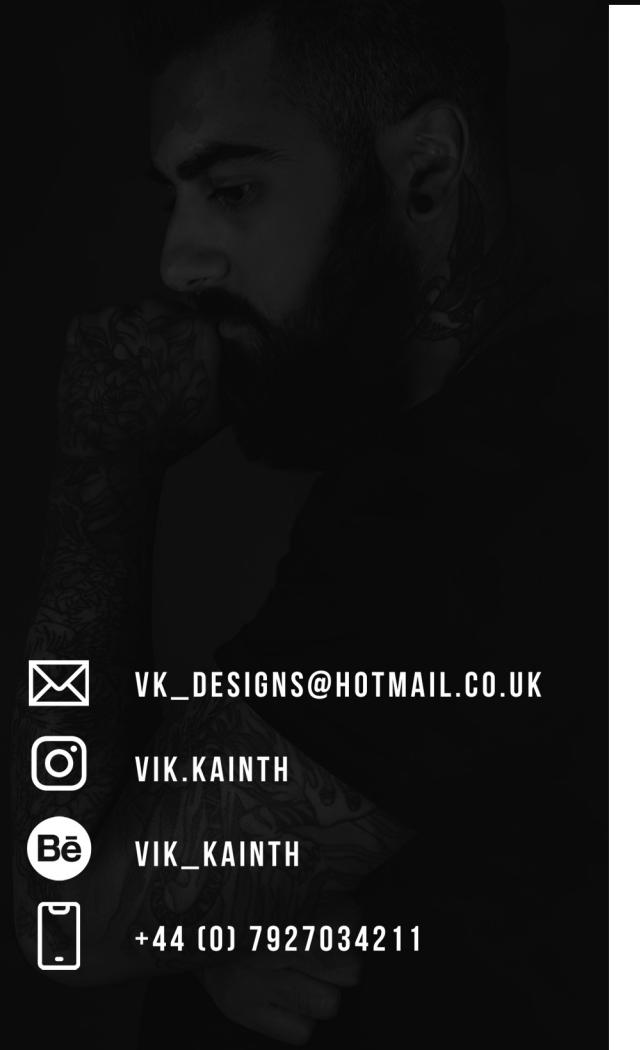

With over 15 years as a professional digital illustrator, Vik Kainth is best known for a stunning unique digital take on modernised traditional Indian artwork. Inspired by cultures that explore and include Arabic and oriental design elements. The mixture of detail and depth goes to no waste in his artworks.

Storytelling through many of his female maharani depictions really stand out as a specialist style of approach.

PIONEERING SOUTH ASIAN MODERN DESI ART

His artwork explores immense detail, depth and colour by layering multiple shapes and curvaceous lines to build together a work of art taking a minimum of three days to complete. Utilizing new digital techniques when creating his pieces to push the boundaries of innovation and digital design.

Vik has a strong global following which includes fellow artists, influencers and celebrities alike. His artwork has been featured by The Times Of India newspaper and the BBC, as well as commissioned works for Naomi Campbell and Gurdas Mann to name a few alongside big entities such as Marvel & Disney. Vik has exhibited his works in Glasgow, Sacramento California, and London's very own Battersea Park and Southbank Centre.
