GURDAS MANN

With meticulous attention to detail, Vik's works are layered with shapes, curves, and dynamic striking gradients, each piece a masterful Vision that often takes days to complete. Constantly experimenting with new digital techniques, he pushes the boundaries of innovation to create stunning visual narratives featuring iconic figures, from deities to cultural icons and renowned personalities. His portfolio includes an array of original portraits, showcasing gods, goddesses, and royalty as well as contemporary celebrity likenesses, designing south asian maharanis and maharajas from scratch, illustration stories for generations to come. True pioneer in the south asian digital art world.

Drawing inspiration from his travels, music, faith, and creative influences, Vik's art speaks to a global audience and embraces culture, breaking norms as well as fuelling possibilities of futurism, reality, and retro nostalgic essences. His creations have garnered admiration from fellow artists, influencers, and celebrities, with his work featured by The Times of India, the BBC, and in prestigious commissions for figures like Naomi Campbell. His exhibitions span cities from Glasgow and Sacramento, California, to London's Southbank Centre and Battersea Park, including various London offices and global restaurant locations.
